

ELECTRONICAL ENGINEER FOR MICROELECTRONICS INTERNSHIP BERLIN, GERMANY (M/F/D)

Inuru is an award winning high-tech company and manufacturer of active packaging and labelling products, that are capable of lighting up, warning on expiry date, displaying small animation and even video in future.

Our products fill the need of brands in the field of Fast-Moving-Consumer-Goods for a personalized brand experience and a better shelf visibility in retail and for home delivery. Amongst Inuru's customers are the most valuable brands worldwide.

In order to support the growth of the company we are searching for an Electronical Engineer for Microelectronic to be hired from the first quarter of 2021.

YOUR TASKS

- Development of printed circuit boards, circuit designs for prototyping and as preparation for series production
- Manufacturing of assemblies on SMD basis
- Manufacturing of assemblies on flexible PCBs and printed electronics
- Identification of suppliers, ordering and coordination of the ordering process

YOUR SKILLS

- Experience in the field of in the production of electronic assemblies by means of soldering, reflow and similar processes
- Experience in manufacturing of printed circuit boards and circuit designs
- Experience in selection of electronic components
- Experience in programming of electronic components for the operation of lighting and communication technologies
- Fluent in German and English

OUR OFFER

- You will work in a full or half time position working on the world of tomorrow already today
- Bring in new ideas and take responsibility for own projects to grow the company together
- Young diverse team – we are professional but laugh a lot
- Come as you are - work in a truly tolerant, international team
- No bullshit-culture

In case of interest please send CV and a short letter explaining why you want to join us to: info@inuru.com or via post to Inuru GmbH, Johann-Hittorf-Str. 8, 12489 Berlin-Adlershof.